

“The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints” is ...

IMO a play on words.

The Lord is quite clear to His disciples that any approved church of His should be called the church of Christ, and should have the gospel that He delivered to the Nephites. (3 Nephi 27).

We are told in the Book of Mormon there are a few, true believers in Christ. I believe this is who is referred to as the church of the Lamb. (1 Nephi 14:10,12)

When the Lord offered the gentiles the opportunity to “Establish” His church, He simply referred to that prospective organization as “my church”. (Book of Commandments 9:14)

IMO when it was obvious that God was displeased with the fickle, early, prospective members, He orchestrated that His name was removed because the requirements of 3 Nephi 27 were not met. The next organization was man made and called The Church of the Latter Day Saints. (See title page of the first Doctrine and Covenants)

The Lord made good on His promise to turn “this generation” over to satan (Book of Commandments 4:6), and the spiritual darkness took firm hold. IMO as satan’s influence was now in control, he endeavored to take the place of Christ. Thus he maneuvered to have the LDS church (a branch of the church of the devil by now) named The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

IMO the play on words is that the Jesus Christ of the latter-day (so called) saints is in fact a false Christ. IMO satan hijacked the name of Christ. I believe the LDS Christ is in fact satan in disguise!

When the early gentiles (Mormons) rejected the fulness of the gospel that is contained in the Book of Mormon, they lost the ability to know the Only True God, Jesus Christ. (Mosiah 15:1-5; Ether 3:14, 18; etc., etc.)

Witnessing some of the posts on the forum, I don’t think most LDS are any better in their understanding than other world religions in regard to who is the Only True God. Seemingly there is an on-going debate by the wise and learned. Many are ever learning but never able to come to a knowledge of the truth.

As the LDS church continues to spiral downward, it won’t be long before it completely crashes and burns. My advice is to pour out your whole soul to God, and have the courage to leave and not look back to Sodom.
